Human Intelligence Festival HIRING HUMANS

WHO IS LARC?

The Los Angeles Regional Consortium
19 colleges. 11 districts. One, connected LA Region.

The Los Angeles Regional Consortium (LARC) connects community colleges, education partners, and employers to strengthen career pathways, advance workforce development, and expand economic opportunity across the LA Region. Our impact continues around the world through our students, long after they leave our campuses.

LARC brings people, expertise, and resources together—translating regional priorities into collaborative initiatives that prepare students for a changing world of work.

Through its A.I. Taskforce and Student Cohort, LARC engages educators, industry leaders, and students as partners in shaping human-centered approaches to AI, learning, and employment.

For sponsors, LARC offers a regional connection to the people preparing tomorrow's workforce—and the students who will become it.

Human Intelligence Festival HIRING HUMANS

WHY A FESTIVAL?

This is not another AI Conference or Summit.

The LARC Human Intelligence Festival: Hiring Humans event brings employers, educators, and students together to explore how human capability is recognized, developed, and demonstrated when AI is part of the application process and the work itself. Through shared experiences and collaborative problem-solving, participants will examine what makes someone worth hiring—and how education can prepare people to show those qualities.

It's a celebration of what humans bring to the table—creativity, judgment, curiosity, and connection—and an invitation to put those qualities into action. Employers, educators, and students will learn together through hands-on experiences, collaborative challenges, play, and conversation, exploring what it means to hire—and be hired—for the human behind the work.

Human Intelligence Festival

HIRING HUMANS

THE GOAL

To provide experiences and surface insights that help employers recognize human capability, educators develop it, and students demonstrate it through a hiring process, educational experience, and work environment increasingly shaped by AI.

PARTICIPANTS SHOULD LEAVE BETTER ABLE TO:

- Recognize human capability: Identify evidence of critical thinking, creativity, discernment, ethics, and judgment beyond polished AI-assisted materials.
- Connect learning with hiring: Translate the qualities employers value into learning experiences and opportunities for students to practice.
- Demonstrate their value: Explain their decisions, show their thinking, creativity, discernment, and judgement, and describe how they use AI while taking responsibility for the result.
- Act on what is learned: Leave with an actionable shift in approaching interviews, applications, assignments, career preparation, and workplace expectations.

The most meaningful result is an informed practice, guided by deeper insights, that is strengthened by distinctly human judgment.

Dunk Tank | Think Tanks

Take the Plunge Into a Learning, Teaching, or Hiring Challenge

Diamond, Platinum, & Gold Sponsors:

First right-of-refusal to facilitate the Think Tank sessions.

The expertise is already in the room—the people who join. Employers understand workplace expectations, educators understand learning, and students understand the experience of navigating both.

- Each Dunk Tank | Think Tank facilitator will lead three rotations. LARC will organize a Zoom meeting in advance to share the timeline and expectations. You will be partnered with a Technology Monitor.
- An AI companion captures the the group's perspectives, opportunities, limitations, and approaches. The LARC Team will take the AI-acquired notes to develop a follow-up report to send to participants as a post-event takeaway.

Human Intelligence Festival HIRING HUMANS

EXPERIENTIAL ACTIVITIES

Vendors | Festival Games | Networking

A 6,000 SF space dedicated to vendors, festival games, and networking is a scheduled part of the experiential rotation. Each attendee group will spend time in this space, creating opportunities for vendor engagement throughout the day. Enjoy cotton candy, popcorn, drinks, a photo-booth and a social media station.

VENDOR BENEFITS

Vendors will be part of a lively environment where games, refreshments, photos, and networking encourage attendees to explore, connect, and stay engaged.

- Dedicated engagement time: Participants rotate through in three groups of 150, 150, and 100, with each group spending 50 minutes in the space. This creates three scheduled opportunities to engage attendees throughout the day.
- Access to multiple audiences: Connect with employers, faculty, educational leaders, workforce professionals, and students—each bringing different needs and perspectives.
- Hands-on discovery: Invite attendees to experience your offerings through demonstrations, interactive displays, and conversations about practical applications.
- Relationship-building: Explore potential education–industry partnerships, campus connections, and future collaboration.
- Direct audience insights: Hear questions and feedback from the people who may use, recommend, or help implement your offerings.
- Memorable visibility: Connect your organization with a distinctive event celebrating human capability, career opportunity, and meaningful collaboration.

Vendors become part of the discovery—helping participants connect what they are learning with resources, relationships, and opportunities they can pursue after the festival.

A 6,000 SF space dedicated to vendors, festival games, and networking is a scheduled part of the experiential rotation. Each attendee group will spend time in this space, creating opportunities for vendor engagement throughout the day. Participants rotate through in three groups of 150, 150, and 100, with each group spending 50 minutes in the space. Enjoy cotton candy, popcorn, drinks, a photo-booth and a social media station.

TAKE YOUR SHOT

(Basketball) How many shots can you make in 30 seconds?

- Focus, alignment, and adjusting your approach. In basketball, taking more shots helps—but so does noticing what missed and making the next shot better. Your next opportunity takes more than a polished application. Bring preparation, focus, and the willingness to try again. Go for the win!

HUMAN IMPACT

(Strength Bell) How well do you know your own strength?

- Self-awareness, intention, and judgment. Making an impact starts with understanding what you bring. Set your target and see how closely your result matches your intention.

FIRST-HAND SKILLS

(Dice-toss game) You hold what counts.

- AI can help produce the work, but your ideas, judgment, creativity, and decisions give it direction and purpose. When you bring those qualities to the table, you show employers the human behind the work—and the value you bring to the team.

NETWORKING OBJECTIVE: MAKE HUMAN CONNECTIONS

Goal: Meet three new people—including someone whose role or perspective differs from yours, including vendors!

Start with a simple question: “What brings you to Hiring Humans?” Share what you do, discover a common interest, and explore how you might learn from or support one another.

Leave with one connection you want to continue after the festival.

Exchange contact information and identify a reason to follow up—a shared resource, an introduction, or a possible collaboration.

Human Intelligence Festival HIRING HUMANS

THE FINAL ACT Celebrating Human Intelligence: Hiring Humans

The festival closes by celebrating participants, hearing what changed their thinking, and recognizing the partners helping turn discovery into action.

2:25–2:40 | Celebrate the Wins

Festival game winners take the spotlight, followed by the Lucky Ducky Mystery Box grand-prize reveal.

2:40–3:00 | Humans Have the Last Word

Participants share a new perspective, a meaningful connection, or a change they intend to make in hiring, teaching, learning, or work.

3:00–3:30 | Carry the Momentum Forward

Diamond, Platinum, and Gold Sponsors join LARC for closing reflections—connecting their commitment to human potential with opportunities participants can pursue beyond the festival.

Your partnership helps make this possible:
new perspectives, meaningful connections, and informed action across education and industry.
